Red for Ed Walk-in

MCS teachers participate in walk-ins and wear Red for Ed Wednesday morning before classes began to call attention to the funding for public education in the state budget. MCHS teachers (top, middle of second row) gathered near the flag poles ouside the high school. MJHS teachers (second row left and right, third row right and bottom) greeted students and waved to parents in the drop-off area while they held signs and reminded voters to pay attention to the state's decisions. Ryker's Ridge teachers took a selfie together to spread the word. (Courier staff, WKM News and submitted photos)

Madison teachers show solidarity against state

By TALI HUNT

About 30 teachers stood Wednesday morning in red shirts and holding signs along the student drop-off line in front of Madison Junior High.

The teachers had gathered to show their concern about the education part of the state's $34.6 billion biennial budget signed Monday by Gov. Eric Holcomb.

MCS teachers began organizing last Friday for Wednesday morning's walk-ins and planning to wear Red for Ed. They invited the corporation's administrators to participate with them because they wanted to be clear their frustration is with the state.

"We support our administration," said MJHS teacher Mandy Holcroft "And, they support us."

The teachers in the walk-in said their goal was to do what's best for children, and that "you need funding to do that." Teachers said they are concerned about growing responsibilities and shrinking budgets for education and the programming that public schools work to offer their students. They also shared concerns about encouraging people to become teachers and the difficulties new, young teachers face with the low salaries and high living costs.

"Red for Ed!" said some teachers — using the slogan from the T-shirts many Indiana teachers have been wearing to show their solidarity on the issue.

Teachers across the state are upset with the state's decision to increase funding for public education by only $539 million to be used between the next two years throughout the state. The budget included a total increase of $763 million for K-12 school funding — with the addional money for charter, voucher and virtual schools.

"Honk if you support public education" read one of the teachers' signs, and parents responded with honks, smiles, waves and thumbs up.

One parent rolled down his window and was greeted by teachers. He told the teachers, "Parents got your back." The teachers responded with thanks and cheers.

"Know who you're voting for!" MJHS teachers reminded parents as they dropped off their students.

"Although the legislative session is over, there is still an election coming up quickly. We want to cheer for our Madison schools and encourage current and would-be politicians to acknowledge and support us and our community public schools," said

LeAnne Blackerby in a note earlier this week to fellow MCS teachers. "Signs in support of our schools are encouraged as well as photo ops and use of social media. We want the public to know who we are and that we support public education."

Teachers participated in walk-ins at several MCS schools. Some of the elementary schools did not have organized walk-ins, but were showing their support by wearing red, which they plan to do for the next few Wednesdays to continue to remind the public about the importance of providing appropriate funding for public education.

2 Clark County judges shot in downtown Indianapolis

Courier staff report

Clark County courts were closed Wednesday after two Clark County judges were shot Tuesday night in a downtown Indianapolis parking area.

Andrew Adams and Bradley Jacobs were in the state capital with colleagues for educational programming. A news release from Indiana Supreme Court Chief Public Information Officer Kathryn Dolan said Jacobs was in critical but stable condition Wednesday and that Adams was in stable condition.

Clark County Presiding Judge Vicki Carmichael, who is in Indianapolis with her co-workers, said, "Our judges across the state are heartbroken to learn of this violent act against our colleagues. We send our prayers for a speedy recovery for both Judge Jacobs and Judge Adams and our love and support to their families and the Clark County community."

Carmichael has spoken with police officers and said they are investigating the nature of the shooting.

"This appears to be a random act of violence," Carmichael said in the release.

She said she had been assured there is no reason to believe the judges were targeted because of their positions with the judicial system.

"It is important for detectives to investigate the situation; therefore, Judge Carmichael will not be making any statements regarding the particulars of the event. However, Judge Carmichael has spoken with fellow judges who were with Judge Adams and Judge Jacobs and she has been advised certain reports circulating about the event are inaccurate," said Dolan. "She urges caution until police provide details and/or make an arrest. Judge Carmichael appreciates the outpouring of support and love from the members of the Clark County community."

Clark County Courts will re-open today, Thursday, May 2.

Residents now can obtain measles vaccine without Rx

Indiana

INDIANAPOLIS — Health Commissioner Kris Box has issued a statewide standing order that adults don't need to see a health care provider for a prescription for the measles, mumps and rubella (MMR) vaccine and can obtain it from any pharmacy that carries it. The order Tuesday comes as measles has sickened more than 700 people in 22 states this year, including one person in Indiana. Indiana residents choosing to seek a vaccine using this order should inform the pharmacist they will be using the state health commissioner's standing order. Vaccine costs will be billed to insurance. "Vaccination is the best way to prevent the spread of this highly contagious disease, and we want to remove any barriers that may prevent Hoosiers from being protected during this nationwide outbreak," Box said.

Soldier charged in slaying of teen

BEECH GROVE — A Kentucky soldier has been arrested in the fatal shooting of an Indiana teenager. Authorities announced Tuesday that military police Sgt. German Parra, 26, was arrested in Kentucky on charges including murder in the death of Xavier Weir, 16. News outlets report authorities said the Fort Knox soldier is originally from Indianapolis. They said Parra and a teenager accused Weir of robbing the teen's brother and set up a fake drug deal last month to confront him. Video shows Parra and the teenager arriving at the scene and firing at a car carrying Weir. The teen was arrested shortly after and charged as an adult with murder. That arrest led authorities to Parra, who's set to appear in court May 24.

Sister of slain girl takes to Twitter

DELPHI — The sister of one of two teenagers slain in 2017 has taken to social media to share a new sketch of the suspected killer. Kelsi German's sister, Liberty German, 14, was killed along with Abigail Williams, 13, in February 2017 after they went hiking near their northern Indiana hometown of Delphi. Indiana State Police last week released a new sketch of the man who's suspected in the killings. That sketch has already generated about 2,000 tips and Kelsi German has taken to Twitter to ask people to retweet the image and to call in or email tips to police. Kelsi German has more than 4,300 Twitter followers. She told WRTV-TV that more than two years after her sister's killing "I never thought it would be this long without answers."

IU to begin beer, wine sales at home football

BLOOMINGTON — Indiana University will sell beer and wine at home football games starting this fall. School officials said Tuesday it will be part of a pilot program recommended by a consulting firm. A third-party vendor will be chosen and will limit purchasers to a two-drink maximum per transaction. All sales will end at the end of the third quarter. Athletic director Fred Glass said the hope is to reduce alcohol-related incidents inside and around Memorial Stadium. Ten percent of proceeds will be used on the university's alcohol safety programming. More than four dozen schools — including five in the Big Ten — already sell alcohol at football games.

Elderly Amur leopard dies from cancer

FORT WAYNE — The Fort Wayne Children's Zoo said an elderly Amur leopard has died from cancer. It said Tuesday the cat named Ussuri died April 23 at the age of 18. He outlived the median life expectancy of the leopards by a few months. The zoo said Ussuri died of cancer affecting the back of his throat and lymph nodes in his neck. It said Ussuri came to the zoo in 2016 and was known to be a talkative cat. Zookeepers say they will miss his morning and evening greetings that were half meow/half growl. This is the third death at the zoo in recent weeks. In mid-April, the zoo announced two sea lions died within weeks apart. The animals were sisters and joined the zoo in 2002.

Indy police search site where baby last seen

INDIANAPOLIS — Police say they've searched a property where an 8-month-old baby missing since March was last reported seen. Police say nothing was found Tuesday after a ground search with the assistance of the University of Indianapolis forensic anthropology team. The FBI also has been assisting in the search for Amiah Robertson. Police say they're not immediately releasing additional information. The case is being handled as a homicide investigation. Chief Bryan Roach has expressed frustration over a lack of cooperation from people who should be able to help authorities after Amiah was reported missing March 16 by her family. Police and volunteers earlier searched unsuccessfully along the White River in Indianapolis.

Tree falls on highway; truck driver killed

SHOALS — Police say recent wet weather apparently caused a tree to topple onto a highway, causing a crash that killed a man. The Martin County Sheriff's Department said Dustin Taylor, 37, of Shoals was eastbound on U.S. 150 last Friday when an entire tree fell across the highway before his pickup truck crashed into the tree. Taylor, who was traveling alone, died in the crash near the town of Shoals, about 85 miles southwest of Indianapolis. Sheriff Travis Roush said recent rainfall combined with windy conditions last Friday apparently combined to cause the tree to topple, blocking both lanes of traffic before Taylor's fatal crash.

Burned body identified as Boonville woman

ELBERFELD — Authorities have released the name of a woman whose badly burned remains were found in a rural area of southwestern Indiana. The Warrick County Sheriff's Office on Tuesday identified the woman as Valarie Anne Ruark, 32, of Boonville. Tips from the public helped identify her. The sheriff's office earlier said the case is being handled as a homicide investigation. The area where the remains were found Friday is in northeastern Warrick County, about 3 miles south of Interstate 64. The death is under investigation.

Retention pool accident kills Illinois, boy, 4

FORT WAYNE — Authorities say a 4-year-old suburban Chicago boy has died after being pulled from a retention pond in northeastern Indiana. The Allen County coroner's office on Monday identified the child found Friday in the Fort Wayne pond as Dhanush Kurra of Arlington Heights, Illinois. An autopsy was performed, but cause and manner of death were pending. Rescuers responded to reports that a child was in the pond and family members pulled him out. WANE-TV reports investigators say the child had apparently wandered away from a home and was missing for about 20 minutes before being found. The death is under investigation.

New pension bill ready for special session

LOUISVILLE — A new pension bill has been drafted for lawmakers to start reviewing ahead of a special legislative session aimed at helping some state-funded agencies struggling with ballooning retirement payments, Gov. Matt Bevin said Tuesday. Bevin hasn't said when he'll call lawmakers back to the state Capitol in Frankfort to consider the administration measure that's meant to give regional universities, county health departments, rape crisis centers and many other agencies relief from a looming spike in pension costs on July 1. Bevin said the bill has been drafted and undergone a fiscal review. "It's being presented to all of the legislators now, so that in the days following Derby, we'll call that special session," he said. "Exactly when, we'll figure that out. But we want to make sure that we get it done long in advance of July 1 so that we can get this resolved."

Commission sets rates for biggest utilities

FRANKFORT— The Kentucky Public Service Commission has set new base rates for the two largest electric providers in Kentucky. The PSC said the rates are lower than what LG&E and Kentucky Utilities requested. With the new rates, the base rate portion of a typical LG&E residential electric bill will increase by about 27 cents per month. For a typical Kentucky Utilities residential customer, it will go up by $4.27. The approved rates were announced Tuesday. A typical LG&E residential natural gas customer will see a $3.70 increase in the base rate portion of the monthly bill. Both LG&E and KU are subsidiaries of the PPL Corp. Their last base rate increases took effect in June 2017. The two utilities have a total of about 964,000 electric customers in 86 Kentucky counties.

Police officers' children awarded scholarships

RICHMOND — A foundation has awarded $48,000 to 26 students, including three surviving children of law enforcement officers who died in the line of duty. The Kentucky Justice and Public Safety Cabinet said the Gerald F. Healy Kentucky Law Enforcement Memorial Foundation Scholarship endowment awarded three $5,000 scholarships to the surviving children. They are the children of Kentucky State Police Trooper Johnny Edrington, who died in 1988; Kentucky Vehicle Enforcement Officer Jason Cammack, who died in 2000, and Jessamine County Sheriff's Deputy Billy Walls, who died in 2001. The other scholarships, $1,500 each, go to a Kentucky dispatcher and 22 dependents of Kentucky officers and dispatchers. The foundation was established in 1999 to build a memorial to honor officers killed in the line of duty. The scholarship program was created in 2004.

2 teachers of year skip White House

LOUISVILLE — Two state teachers of the year have skipped a White House ceremony to protest the Trump administration's education policies. News outlets report that award-winning teachers Jessica Dueñas of Kentucky and Kelly Holstine of Minnesota decided not the attend Monday's ceremony in Washington. Dueñas told the Courier Journal that she feels the Trump administration's support of school choice is "clearly attacking public education." She won for her work as a special educator in Oldham County but now teaches in Jefferson County. Holstine teaches English at an alternative high school in Shakopee. She told the Star Tribune that her students frequently face discrimination and the current administration's polices hurt them. U.S. Education Secretary Betsy DeVos attended the event and recognized the national teacher of the year. President Donald Trump did not attend.

Reckless homicide in inmate's death

MAYFIELD — Kentucky State Police said they've charged a man who provided drugs to an inmate at the Graves County jail with reckless homicide. Police said in a statement this week that an investigation found Mark W. Basham, 33, provided methamphetamine to Rodney Evans, 50, and other inmates on April 19 while he was incarcerated at the jail. Police said he hid the drugs in his body. WPSD-TV reported Evans died April 20. Basham was arrested on April 28 and also faces charges of promoting contraband and trafficking in a controlled substance. He was taken to the Graves County jail. Online records don't indicate if he has an attorney.

Teen pleads guilty to killing sex offender

AUBURN — A teenager has pleaded guilty to killing a convicted sex offender who lived nearby. The Daily News reported Lance D'artagnan Lear, 17, of Auburn entered the plea Monday in Logan Circuit Court to charges of murder and arson. The plea agreement recommends a 20-year sentence. Lear told the judge he went to Jerry Caudill's home on June 7, 2017 around 3 a.m. and set it on fire knowing Caudill was asleep inside. According to an affidavit from Logan Sheriff's Detective Kevin Bibb, Lear said he wanted to burn down Caudill's home "to make life hard due to Caudill hurting others." State court records show Caudill was on probation after pleading guilty in 2013 to 36 counts of sexual abuse.

4th homeless camp cleared near Louisville

LOUISVILLE — A fourth homeless camp has been cleared of residents, and a fifth homeless camp has been given notice. The Courier Journal reported the camp housed 30 to 40 people near area train tracks and was cleared Monday by transportation company CSX. Jeff Gill is the founder of outreach group Hip Hop Cares. He said most residents displaced Monday migrated to other camps, not to shelters. The city has cleared three camps so far this year, and some of those residents had moved to the CSX camp. A low-barrier shelter was opened to help those displaced, but residents say its chaotic environment is worrying. That shelter and the 518 emergency beds at other shelters in the city fill up every night, leaving people in need without support.

State Police enforce Move Over law to try to cut fatalities

By TRACI L. MILLER
(Anderson) Herald Bulletin

PENDLETON — Indiana State Police Sgt. Dave Poynter used both hands to train a laser device on the traffic moving toward him.

Poynter's vehicle, positioned at the edge of an overpass spanning Interstate 69, was barely visible from below. A muffled roar from the traffic traveling at speeds of 70 miles an hour beneath the overpass seeped through the open window.

"The beauty of this, is it's vehicle specific," he said as the high-pitched whine from the laser locked on a target. "The only one you are going to get is the one you have it on."

Troopers in Indiana issued more than 300 tickets and warnings from April 14 through April 20 during a statewide special patrol enforcing the state's Move Over law.

The law requires motorists to slow down and move over when an emergency vehicle, utility service vehicle, highway maintenance or tow truck is stopped on two- or four-lane roadways with emergency lights flashing.

Drivers unable to change lanes should not stop in the roadway, but reduce speed and proceed with caution. Violating the law can result in a fine, and an accident that damages emergency equipment, causes injury or death to an emergency worker will result in a driver's license being suspended for up to two years.

During the specialized patrols in April, drivers who failed to slow down and move over for emergency vehicles on the road were targeted.

ISP troopers issued 115 tickets and 194 warnings during the statewide patrol with 220 of the tickets being issued for failure to change lanes for emergency vehicles on a four-lane highway. Indiana's enforcement efforts were coordinated with state police in Kentucky, Ohio, Michigan, Pennsylvania and West Virginia.

As the summer months approach and road construction projects resume, the Move Over enforcement project was used by state police to find egregious violators of the law, but to also help educate the public on the importance of slowing down and moving over for emergency vehicles.

ISP GOAL: REDUCE FATALITIES

Master Trooper Ron Huff said the goal of the state police isn't to act as a highway patrol agency issuing tickets to "high flyers" for revenue; they focus on promoting traffic safety through enforcement of the law.

"Our primary goal out here is to reduce fatalities and injury accidents," Huff said. "That's the whole purpose behind our enforcement. The whole purpose behind our Move Over law is to protect first responders and highway workers and highway emergency workers out here."

The No. 1 cause of law enforcement deaths is from traffic incidents, according to the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

From 2007 to 2016, there were 460 officers who were killed in the line of duty from a vehicle crash and 130 officers who died in the line of duty after being struck by a vehicle, according to the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health.

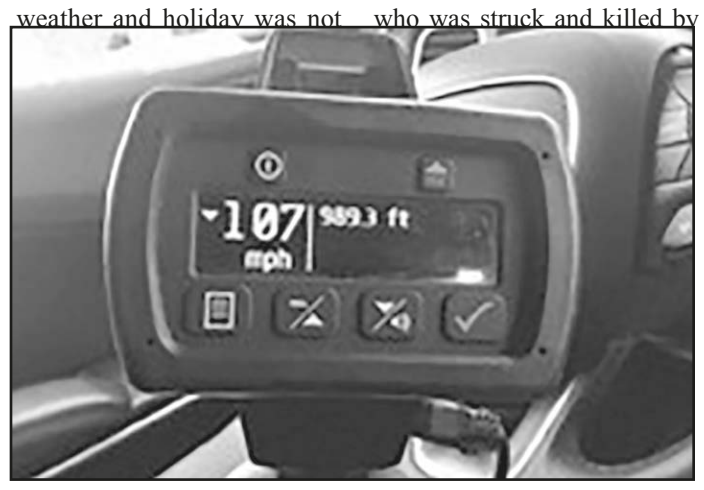
Huff said in addition to finding people violating the Move Over law, the specialized patrols look for distracted driving violations such as speeding, following too close, drifting from lane to lane and failing to use turn signals. Distracted driving often leads to motorists failing to move over when approaching an emergency vehicle stopped on the road or at a crash scene.

Poynter participated in the specialized patrol in Madison County on April 19.

He clocked speeders and then called out its description and lane position on I-69 to three other troopers in both marked and unmarked cars lined up on the road below.

The positioning of Poynter on the overpass and the police cars below allowed troopers to keep the vehicles in sight until a traffic stop was initiated. Each stop was recorded including the exact distance the speed was measured and the rate of speed.

Poynter said the overcast weather and holiday was not ideal for traffic stops as fewer people were on the road and people tend to speed more when the weather is nice.



A vehicle going 107 mph on Interstate 69 was recorded by Indiana State Police Sgt. Dave Poynter, who was parked on an overpass in Madison County during a special patrol on April 19. After Poynter alerted other troopers in the patrol, the driver was stopped and ticketed.

Several vehicles, however, were still traveling over 80 mph.

"If we are on the side of the road, imagine what that does to us," he said. "I know at 65 miles an hour — it hurts like hell."

In 2015, Poynter was working an accident scene on Indiana 28 in Delaware County when his police car was struck by a vehicle.

"It was slick," he said. "Everyone was doing a good job of moving over for me, except a 20-year-old kid in a Mustang. He loses it and finds me sitting in my car."

Poynter said he had to have back surgery because of the accident and the young driver totaled both vehicles.

"Good times," he said sarcastically. "But it very easily could have went a different way."

Things did end differently for Trooper Andrew Winzenread who was struck and killed by a semitractor-trailer in Decatur County on April 25, 1997.

Winzenread, 26, had stopped to assist a motorist who had run out of gas. He was hit while exiting his vehicle after he had returned to the stranded vehicle with gas.

Indiana's Move Over law was originally crafted and passed as the result of his death, according to a press release from ISP.

"I like the Move Over law," Poynter said. "And I have a scar to prove it."

At a glance

The "Move Over" law originated in South Carolina in 1996 after a paramedic was struck and killed while responding to a crash. Since then, every state has enacted such laws. Hawaii, in 2012 became the 50th and final state to enact "Move Over" legislation.

Transparency bill signed; requires 3-year spending plan

By SCOTT L. MILEY
CNHI Statehouse Bureau

INDIANAPOLIS — Indiana townships with seemingly massive budget surpluses will need to submit plans to show the public how the money will be used under a bill signed into law Monday by Gov. Eric Holcomb.

The legislation authored by Rep. Cindy Ziemke, R-Batesville, requires townships to file a three-year capital improvement plan with the state if their surplus is 150 percent over the annual budget estimate and more than $200,000. The plan would affect 88 of Indiana's 1,005 townships.

"My goal has always been reform and accountability to the taxpayers," Ziemke said.

Without a capital improvement plan, a township wouldn't receive property taxes. The bill allows a one-time transfer of funds inside their budget. Townships generally supply fire service, maintain cemeteries and provide poor relief to residents.

"After they complete the capital improvement plan, it will allow them to transfer surpluses into another fund they can actually use. That's been a big issue with a lot of these townships," Ziemke said.

Holcomb said he wants to work with township government leaders in using their offices to fight the state's opioid crisis. Trustees often see residents in need of medical assistance that could be related to addictions.

"They're on the front lines and what we've seen is all the federal assistance, all the state assistance, it's making sure the rubber meets the road. ... So I want to forge a partnership there like we don't have right now," Holcomb said.

Last year, townships across the state ended with balances totaling $481.3 million. On average, township trustees end their year with a surplus of 111 percent over their adopted budgets.

Across the state, townships had budgets totaling $389.3 million in 2017. But they had a total cash balance of $453.6 million, more than 16% above their budgeted amounts. That was enough for 14 months of operating revenues, as much as seven times the generally accepted threshold for government units.

Last year, the number rose as townships recorded total budgets of $402 million and cash balances of $472 million, according to records kept by the Indiana Department of Local Government Finance.

"I don't think the general population realizes that our state was sitting on half-a-billion dollars in township money," Ziemke said. "So it's like, hey, prove to the taxpayers what you're doing with it."

Many townships save money for capital expenditures such as fire equipment or park amenities but some told CNHI, in a series on township government that ran in December, that they had no set plans for the money.

"There's always been a little bit of concern about townships, what they have in their accounts and what they're carrying in their balance. It's usually for a reason," state Sen. Rick Niemeyer, R-Lowell, who sponsored the bill in the Senate, said.

"Maybe they should show why they have that money in there in a capital plan so that taxpayers know it's in there for a reason," Niemeyer said.

The bill received little opposition as it progressed through the General Assembly. The bill received support from the Indiana Township Association, which represents a majority of the state's townships.

"Our primary goal in this bill is transparency," Indiana Township Association executive director Debbie Driskell said. "There's been a lot of criticism, whether it's right or wrong, that townships have high cash balances."

The plan will affect townships that collect enough property taxes to set aside funds, said Sen. Jim Buck, R-Kokomo.

"It's almost like a pilot here in my mind, trying to make sure the people that are most apt to have a reserve that we'll be able to track them," Buck said.

In the separate House Bill 1001, the state's budget legislation, the DLGF would create a pilot program for township residents to apply for financial assistance when they need food, housing or medical help. Currently the process is conducted by personally filling out applications through township offices.

Governor touts successes as he signs $34.6 billion budget

By SCOTT L. MILEY
CNHI Statehouse Bureau

INDIANAPOLIS — Gov. Eric Holcomb signed the state's $34.6 billion biennial budget on Monday while proclaiming more than 30 successes in his legislative agenda and lauding a balanced budget with reserves above the initially 11 percent recommendation.

"We have checked off our end-of list and we're not looking back," Holcomb said less than a week after the end of the Indiana General Assembly session.

"Our state strategy for growth continues to help define how we structure ourselves regardless of the issue that we're taking on. Whether it be workforce development programs or major infrastructure projects, we are nimble," Holcomb said.

Holcomb signed the $34.6 billion general fund bill in the Statehouse rotunda surrounded by about 20 legislators and department heads. He then presented his Next Level agenda successes, and one red check mark, in his office.

The one mark was in seeking an increase in the school supplies tax credit to $500 for teachers.

However, he touted an additional $763 million for K-12 school funding over the next two years. Also, the schools pension liability will be paid down for $150 million, allowing more money for teachers salaries.

State leaders won't know if the money has gone into teacher paychecks until finance reports are turned in. Legislators chose to let local school districts decide if there will be teacher salary increases, although the General Assembly urged the money go to teachers.

"This isn't a one-step process, this is a two-step process," Holcomb said, acknowledging there will be future discussions on how to ensure raises get to teacher.

Democrats criticized leaving out a provision to guarantee salary bumps.

"At the end of the day, the Republican budget still doesn't ensure that our dedicated and valued teachers will receive a pay increase over the next two years. We had the opportunity to make that happen this year and the Republican supermajority neglected to act," Senate Minority Leader Tim Lanane, D-Anderson, said.

"Balanced budgets are required, but artificially bloated reserves that come at the expense of so many important programs, organizations and people are contrary to the state's primary goal of meeting the needs of its citizens."

The budget surplus amounts to 11.5 percent or more than $2 billion. Republicans have said the reserve is needed in case of an economic downturn.

As of Monday, Holcomb had signed more than 100 bills, including the budget bill, into law. At least two bills, one on gaming expansion and another based on a carbon sequestration pilot project, required additional study on his part, he said.

However, Holcomb said he plans no veto of any legislation coming to his desk.

Both of the bills partially involve Vigo County, which could receive the transfer of a casino license from Gary and a project to capture carbon dioxide at a proposed ammonia production facility in West Terre Haute. The carbon dioxide would be injected underground as an alternative to releasing carbon dioxide into the air.

"I need to learn more about them. They're big major economic development bills. ... Nothing in specific raises a concern for me but I haven't read them," the governor said.

He also claimed success in a bias crime law for Indiana that allows judges in handing down criminal sentences to consider bias based on a victim's real or perceived traits.

The bill was criticized for not including a list of characteristics such as gender identity, gender and age.

Other advancements in his Next Level agenda, he said, include:

• Improving options for school safety through added grant funding.

• Accelerating a completed Interstate 69 Section 6 and other highway projects.

• Building a statewide network of biking, riding and hiking trails, accomplished in part by toll road proceeds with the goal of a trail being within five miles of every Hoosier.

• Exemption of military pensions for state income tax as a way to retain veterans in the state.

'We're not there yet,' Holcomb says on raising teacher pay

BY STEPHANIE WANG
Chalkbeat Indiana • chalkbeat.org

In the Indiana Statehouse, education was the star of the legislative session.

The national buzz over low teacher salaries had reached the Hoosier state. A local school shooting and a deadly crash at a bus stop had put educators and families on alert. And it was time for the biennial budget tussle over school funding.

Plus, political fireworks were blasting — over the power of the state education chief, over selling public school properties, over deeply troubled virtual charter schools.

Republican leaders and some education advocates ended the four-month legislative session last week declaring "tremendous success" for education, but others felt lawmakers left big issues on the table — most glaringly, the issue of teacher pay.

In Richmond, for example, teachers continued "walk-in" rallies after the session ended to highlight that the legislature didn't do enough for them and their schools.

On Monday, Republican Gov. Eric Holcomb acknowledged, "We're not there yet."

Holcomb reiterated that he believed raising teacher salaries would be a two-step process — short-term action on top of long-term planning.

The governor said he was happy with the money that lawmakers were able to funnel toward schools, putting the responsibility for increasing teacher paychecks on local school boards. Lawmakers set guidelines to encourage districts to spend 85 percent of their budgets on classroom expenses, limiting administrative costs to 15 percent of the budget.

While there are no clear ramifications for districts that don't meet those standards, they will have to make their budgeting more transparent and possibly explain their spending to state officials.

Lawmakers pumped more money into schools overall — an average increase of 2.5 percent — and freed up $70 million each year in retirement payments, which they hoped would send more money into teachers' pockets.

But there's no guarantee. For some schools, funding will drop in the coming years. Others will see more significant increases. And some schools say they're still pinched, sometimes forced to ask voters to approve referendums to drum up the funds they need to operate.

Education groups voiced appreciation for the funding increases, but some said schools still need more.

The Indiana State Teachers Association promised to "continue to fight for increased teacher pay and funding for every student," the group said in a statement last week. "Our members are just getting started and will continue advocacy efforts into the future."

Lawmakers also added $7.5 million each year to the merit bonus pool for teachers — one area where the extra dollars are specifically directed to them.

In the long-term, a special commission formed by the governor is charged with tackling the teacher pay question. The state will start compiling an annual report on teacher salaries, and officials could also take a closer look at how Indiana funds high-poverty schools.

And the state put money behind creating career ladders and residency programs for teachers, a move that one education group said "elevates the teaching profession in Indiana."

"I think what you see are solid, incremental steps that we hope will lead to a long-term commitment to really tackle the problem of elevating the profession," said Justin Ohlemiller, executive director of Stand for Children Indiana. "We knew it would not be achievable in one budget cycle."

But exactly how long this issue will stretch remains unclear. Next year, lawmakers go into a short session. They will revisit the budget in 2021.

Education funding up from 2019 session, but 'historic' might be a reach

By SUE LOUGHLIN
(Terre Haute) Tribune-Star

Republican legislative leaders touted "historic" funding increases for K-12 schools in the new state budget, yet for many West Central Indiana districts, estimates show those increases below the rate of inflation.

Funding for K-12 public schools will increase $539 million over the biennium; when adding in additional money for vouchers, charters, teacher grants and school safety that number jumps to $763 million, or about 2.5 percent each year.

The rate of inflation was 1.9 percent in March, according to the U.S. Department of Labor.

Democrats note that traditional public schools — excluding charters — are getting a 2 percent increase while charters are going up 10 percent the first year and vouchers 9 percent.

School funding estimates shows that North Central Parke Community School Corp. will see funding decreases both years, down 1.9 percent the first year and down 2 percent the second year.

The funding formula also estimates that enrollment will continue to decline.

In 2013, Turkey Run and Rockville school districts merged into North Central Parke, and this past year, the two high schools and middle schools consolidated to become Parke Heritage middle school and high school.

Tom Rohr, retiring superintendent of North Central Parke, said that any additional funds for public education are much appreciated.

But schools with declining enrollments, such as North Central Parke, "continue to see a downward spiral in its ability to provide educational programs comparable to growing districts. The state needs to recognize that small rural districts continue to struggle even though there are statewide average increases. The gap between growing districts and declining districts will continue to widen under the present funding formula," he said.

Declining enrollment and revenue "makes it extremely difficult for us to offer the kinds of programs we would like and to attract and keep good teachers, when we're competing with those schools in pocket areas that have a lot of growth and are getting significant new money," Rohr said.

It means the district must become even more efficient, "and unfortunately, we're not going to be able to offer the kinds of salary increase that many other schools with growing enrollments can offer," he said. "We'd like to avoid cutting staff as much as possible, but at the same time, there will be a point in time where those tough decisions have to be made."

The Vigo County School Corp. is projected to receive a 0.9 percent increase the first year and 1.3 percent the second year, and the state also projects continued enrollment declines.

"Our state legislators have a very difficult time in addressing all the needs our entire state has," said Rob Haworth, VCSC superintendent. But challenges and requirements placed in front of schools are increasing.

With the projected funding increases at less than inflation rates, "It's really difficult for our school corporation to keep up with all the financial challenges we face." At a February state of the schools address, he pointed out that the district's cash balance has declined $7 million in two years.

"When we see those numbers, it's disheartening ... and it will be difficult for us to meet all the needs we currently have, and that's not talking about all the other things we'd like to do," Haworth said.

He also pointed to declines in the complexity index, which factors in children who live in poverty. "The state is really devaluing complexity," Haworth said. "When we start thinking about schools in our similar circumstances, those complexity dollars have been helpful in addressing some of the issues faced by children coming from difficult circumstances, and to see those dollars go away, that becomes disappointing as well."

The hope is that as state legislators continue to study school funding, "They will look at those issues revolving around the complexity index and equity," Haworth said. "Should every child be funded equally, or are there situations in which it may cost a little more to educate some of our children."

State Rep. Tonya Pfaff, D-Terre Haute, who just concluded her first session as a state legislator, said she was "disappointed" with the outcome as far as funding for public schools. "One of the main goals of the session was to raise teacher salaries and to fund public education. That's not happening," she said.

Ninety-three percent of Indiana students go to public schools, yet public school funding went up just 2.06 percent. Meanwhile, funding for charters went up 10.3 percent and vouchers, 9.3 percent, she said.

With the minimal increases, or even decreases, for West Central Indiana districts, "How can we possibly raise teacher salaries?" she said.

Republicans say the Legislature is "giving all this money to education, but they're still leaving public schools behind," Pfaff said.

"All the teachers I work with just want their salary increased," she said. "Grants are fine, tax credits for supplies are okay. But at the end of the day, [teachers] don't want to have to have two jobs to do what they love. If you look at surrounding states, all pay more than Indiana."

The issue of inadequate pay has not been addressed, and "it will contribute to our teacher shortage even more. In the end, it hurts our kids," Pfaff said.

State Sen. Jon Ford, R-Terre Haute, said per pupil spending amounts will increase for West Central Indiana districts, "but I think it's definitely challenging here as our school-age population continues to shrink," and funding follows the student.

He believes it was a "good session overall" for investing more money into K-12 education, which receives slightly over half of the state budget.

There was a total of $763 million in new money for K-12 education, including $539 million for public school tuition support.

Teacher appreciation grants — stipends for effective and highly effective teachers — have increased from $30 million a year to $37.5 million, and "we put an emphasis on teachers with less than five years of service," Ford said.

West Central Indiana districts will need to "look at how they operate," he said. Operational expenses in this area "are higher than the average," he said.

The Indiana State Teachers Association says the budget reflects progress for education funding, and the increases in this budget for public schools would be the largest in 11 years.

"This is largely due to the activism of our members and public education advocates," according to an ISTA statement provided by Kim Fidler, ISTA representative.

Members and advocates "showed up in the thousands to demonstrate at the Statehouse, hosted community and school walk-ins and connected with legislators in Indianapolis and back home," according to the statement. "These actions helped unite support and advance issues of compensation, education funding and the teacher shortage."

According to the statement, ISTA "presented reasonable goals for funding increases to the legislature, however, policymakers remain unwilling to expand revenue to address long-term public education funding issues and teacher pay. We will continue to fight for increased teacher pay and funding for every student."

A HUMBLING INTELLECT

At 17, he graduates from Goshen College, youngest ever

By CHRISTIAN SHECKLER
South Bend Tribune

GOSHEN — Until very recently, some of Mikol Aspinwall's friends did not know he was 17 years old. One of his buddies, a fellow computer science major, just found out a week and a half ago, as the two prepared to graduate from Goshen College.

"I can't even emulate his reaction," Aspinwall said Sunday. "Total shock, total surprise."

At a time when many students his age are thinking about senior prom, Aspinwall was collecting a bachelor's degree Sunday, making him the youngest known graduate in Goshen College history.

Aspinwall lived in Phoenix during his early childhood. By the time he was 3, his mother, Grace Apsinwall, already knew he was different. She convinced a local school to let him enroll in pre-kindergarten, and a teacher soon told her Mikol was reading.

He started attending high school at age 9 at an academy for gifted and talented students at Arizona State University, where, according to an uncle, he audited college-level classes in calculus and physics. Even there, it wasn't easy to satisfy his hunger for knowledge. His mother had to buy memberships to museums, so he could keep learning outside the classroom, she said. Once, he came home after school and, instead of asking for a snack, immediately began hours of research into Pluto. As the family story goes, Aspinwall's research led him to conclude Pluto was not a planet — even before scientists downgraded it to "dwarf" status.

Once Aspinwall passed his college admissions test, at 11, his mother looked toward northern Indiana, where they had family support from his uncle, Felipe Merino, a lawyer and school board member in Goshen.

Aspinwall dreamed of attending the University of Notre Dame. He considered an offer to start at Holy Cross College, possibly allowing him to transfer to Notre Dame, but Merino said it seemed the university "didn't know what to do with him" in his unusual situation as a prospective 13-year-old freshman.

The family said Goshen College leaders were eager to make a place for Aspinwall.

"They got hold of him and never let him go," Grace Aspinwall said.

In some ways, of course, the college experience for Aspinwall was unusual. He lived at home with his mother, who moved to Goshen with him. Unsure of how he would handle the classes, his mother and uncle got permission to access his records so they could check up on him.

But despite his genius-level IQ, Aspinwall tried to settle in without drawing attention to himself.

A communications professor, Duane Stoltzfus, said Aspinwall always sat in the front row and was memorable for his eloquence, but also his humility.

"He carries his intelligence lightly," Stoltzfus said. "He is somebody who is just very humble about his accomplishments."

Beyond the classroom, Aspinwall gained experience by running websites for college faculty and designing a walking-tour app for the Goshen Historical Society, featuring downtown points of interest. He also got involved in service, including a trip to Puerto Rico to help with recovery from Hurricane Maria. He plans to continue working for Blink Labs, a Silicon Valley social-media startup where he interned.

Aspinwall is still chasing his dream of being a "domer" — he is thinking about Notre Dame for grad school — but he said he was glad he ended up at a liberal-arts college as an undergraduate, allowing him to spend time outside a research lab, where he likely would have put in many hours at a larger university.

"I really like the bachelor of arts education," he said, "because it's not just computers."

Adams creates a world outside the singer-songwriter box

By CHARLIE ROHLFING

I'm going to go out on a limb and say you've never heard music conceived and performed anything like Bri Adams does it. The name of her band is Many Rooms, and the sound is ethereal, haunting and evocative. When I pressed Bri to describe her style she called it contemplative and melancholy.

Bri is another one of our resident musicians who mostly flies under the radar locally, but has a significant worldwide following. If you search "Many Rooms Which Is To Say Everything" on YouTube you'll see the song has 13,000 views. That's a pretty big deal in today's fractured and dissipated music industry.

Bri says her fan base is very diverse, from all walks of life, young and old. "I've seen my music streamed on Spotify in Europe, South America and even Australia," she said.

Bri is a Houston native who recorded her first songs at the age of 18, just five years ago. She's lived in Nashville and Columbus, Ohio, but eventually met and married a Madison native and is making her home with us these days. You may recognize her from G.H. Coffee Shop where she sometimes works when she's not out on tour.

"I signed with a recording label in 2016," she said, "and that's helped me elevate my career quite a bit. They help me get my music out there, and they give me a lot of professional guidance. I just came back from a six-week nationwide tour with a full band, and I'm going out again in June. Plus I need to start writing a new record pretty soon."

The writing process is extremely important to Bri, even if it can be a bit daunting. "I love it, and I hate it too," she said. "I know exactly what I want people to feel when I write a song and play it, but that's easier said than done. I have to make myself vulnerable for it to be real.

"I want the listener to feel heard and comforted. They need to have no walls, no barriers. That's the only way to have a connection with people is by allowing yourself to be vulnerable. I want everything I write to represent where I am in life, as honest as I can be."

Between tours when she's living in Madison, Bri would like to teach beginning guitar lessons. "I can teach anybody, any age, but I really want to focus on young girls. I want to encourage young people, tell them 'you can do it.'

"When I was coming up musically, I had to fight for my voice among the boys. I want to help pave the way for the girls, show them how to use their guitar as a creative instrument." For more info on guitar lessons you can email Bri at BriannaMichelleHunt@gmail.com.

Asked about the future, Bri said music is the only path forward for her.

"This is all I know, all I've felt since I can remember. It can be scary, but I have to trust myself. I've been working really hard for it and I'm not going to fail if I'm genuine. I want to be able to sustain, make a good living. I want to blow up so I can disappear, if that makes sense."

HOT TIP OF THE WEEK:

On Saturday night Thomas Family Winery is having its annual Steampunk theme night, with the always-energetic Highland Reign providing the music. On Sunday afternoon the Madison Performing Arts Foundation is presenting a choir festival featuring choirs from area congregations. You'll want to be there for the big "all choir" ensemble numbers they are performing. 2 p.m. at Trinity Methodist.

Carrie Underwood lifting up women on new Cry Pretty Tour 360

By KRISTIN M. HALL

NASHVILLE, Tennessee (AP) — When Carrie Underwood was plotting out her upcoming Cry Pretty Tour 360, she realized she had selected an all-female lineup with opening acts Maddie & Tae and Runaway June.

But then she wondered: "Can we do that?"

And then told herself: "OK, we have to do this!"

In a genre that often only designates one or two slots to female acts for festivals or tours, Underwood's arena tour kicked off Wednesday in Greensboro, North Carolina, with six women behind the mic throughout the show. It's becoming a pattern for women in country music, as Miranda Lambert, Maren Morris and Kacey Musgraves all have had all-female or mostly-female tours recently.

"I feel like it's been a really great time for women to kind of come together and be like, 'Let's support each other. We're all in this together. Let's be all in this together,'" Underwood said.

After her No. 1 album "Cry Pretty" came out last year, Underwood is hitting the road again and playing in more than 50 cities through October. Sitting down in a Nashville rehearsal hall where they were practicing for the tour, Underwood blushed when her supporting acts recounted how her songs were intertwined with their own careers.

Naomi Cooke from Runaway June remembers always getting requests to cover "Before He Cheats" when she played at Tootsie's Orchid Lounge, a downtown honky tonk. Taylor Dye of Maddie & Tae recalled that she often won local talent shows when she sang "Cowboy Casanova" or "Temporary Home."

Underwood will be returning to the center of the arenas for this tour, following her 2016 Storyteller Tour that also featured a center stage that allowed her to spread out. The seven-time Grammy winner is an energetic performer, typically sprinting around and singing from all sides of the stage and blowing away fans with her impressive vocal chops.

"I loved being able to see so much more of the audience and be able to connect so much with so many more people," Underwood said.

She's bringing the whole family on the road with her, including 4-year-old Isaiah, 3-month-old Jacob Bryan, and her husband, former NHL player Mike Fisher. "Somebody's got to watch the kids when I am onstage," Underwood said with a laugh.

The music industry isn't always supportive of working moms and Underwood has been blunt and honest about those pressures, posting on Instagram about her post-baby body or having to pump as she was getting ready for the Academy of Country Music Awards.

"(Isaiah) was 11 months old when we started the last tour," Underwood said. "So it was very much like: do a little makeup, make him dinner, come back and do my hair, then get him ready for bed. So it was worlds colliding, but it was great. I'm so lucky I get to take my kids to work with me and not everybody gets to do that."

The tour comes at an important time for both Maddie &Tae and Runaway June, who both have new albums coming this year.

"We've never performed our music in a lot of these cities," said Cooke of Runaway June (Hannah Mulholland and Jennifer Wayne round out the trio). "We literally couldn't have dreamed up a better platform for us to be releasing new music and playing new songs."

In a year when no women were nominated for entertainer of the year at the ACMs, Underwood — who has won that award twice — has a chance to prove that women deserve to be in that category again.

"It's gonna be a great show from start to finish. That's our main objective," Underwood said. "I want them to leave saying, 'That's the best show I've ever been to.'"

And Maddie Marlow, of Maddie and Tae, added: "Watch all these chicks sell out arenas."

Cubs rally in 6th tops Warriors 8-5

By DAVID CAMPBELL
Courier Staff Writer
dcampbell@madisoncourier.com

Madison baseball manufactured three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to deny Scottsburg 8-5 and end the Cubs' four-game losing streak.

The Cubs, who saw an early 4-0 lead evaporate by the sixth inning, responded to Scottsburg's rally with a rally of their own, a sight coach Tim Armstrong was happy to see.

"We've been talking about having a fire in you so that when things aren't going well, you knuckle down and make it happen," Armstrong said. "Those are things that we have to start doing. It's not a 'poor little old me' type of thing. You've got to suck it up and get the job done and we did that."

Madison (7-6), which hadn't won a game in over two weeks, pushed four runs across in the first inning thanks to an error, a two-run single by Gabe True and an RBI single by Hunter Ferris and seemed poised for a quick blowout of the Warriors.

Scottsburg got a run back in the second but Madison answered with another run in the bottom half of that inning when Cooper Yancey created a run on the basepaths with a single, two stolen bases and a forced error on the catcher to push the lead to 5-1. Yancey had used the same formula to score the Cubs' first run of the game.

But Madison's bats fell silent after the third and Scottsburg began chipping away, getting two runs back in the third, one in the fifth and one more in the sixth on a crucial dropped third strike with two outs and the bases loaded to tie the game at 5-5.

"We opened up really well but then we started walking guys and we relaxed a little too much," Armstrong said.

But Madison came right back. As he had done all game, Yancey ignited the winning rally with his legs. The senior opened the inning with a double, promptly stole and third base and walked home when the throw sailed into left field.

Zach Forner followed by drawing a one-out walk and stealing second. He then scored on Quinten Humes' RBI single, who in turn scored on True's base-hit.

Staked to a three-run lead, Forner shut the Warriors down in the seventh to seal the win.

Forner, who relieved starter Ferris in the fifth inning, picked up the win after allowing one unearned run on three hits in two and two-thirds innings with five strikeouts and two walks. Ferris struck out six and walked three during his stint.

Yancey went 3-for-4 with three runs scored while True was 3-for-3 with three RBIs. Humes had two hits, scored twice and had an RBI and Ferris had two hits and an RBI.

Cole Atha and Mitchell Prince each had two hits for Scottsburg. Ethan Mullins struck out 12 and walked four in five and two-thirds innings but took the loss.

Madison hosts Lawrenceburg at 6 p.m. Friday.

PLAYING TAG: Madison shortstop Mason Welsh (above) dives to tag out Scottsburg's Treyton Owens on the way to third base. Madison's Cooper Yancey (below, 15) high-fives Zach Forner after crossing home plate with a run. The Cubs knuckled down to grind out an 8-5 win over the Warriors Tuesday and halt a four-game losing streak. (Staff photos by David Campbell)

Madison's '99 champs to reunite Friday night

COURIER STAFF REPORT

Madison's 1999 State Championship baseball team will reunite and be honored before Friday's home game against Lawrenceburg.

The 1999 Cubs were not only one of the best baseball teams in school history, but one of the best in the history of the state. Twenty years ago the team went 31-2 and never trailed in six postseason games, defeating Carroll (Allen) 10-0 in the 3A championship.

Three members of the team were eventually drafted by Major League Baseball teams with a fourth spending three years in the minor leagues. A total of 13 players either played professional or college baseball.

According to Joe Jenner, a member of that team and an assistant coach with the current Cubs, at least 11 members of the 1999 squad have committed to be at the event, including eventual No. 1 overall draft pick Bryan Bullington and fellow draftees Chris Bass and Chad Liter, and minor leaguer Keith Black.

"We're extremely pleased with the reception that we have gotten from the guys. Even those who can't be here have expressed regret and wishes that they could make it," Jenner said. "But we've got guys coming in from as far away as Denver and we're really excited to be able to honor the team."

The ceremony honoring the team will begin about 20 minutes from the 6 p.m. start of the varsity game against Lawrenceburg. The players will then be available to greet fans after the ceremony.

Any youth in grades eight or below who is accompanied by an adult and is wearing a baseball uniform or Madison Cub gear will be admitted free.

H1 names Perry as sport's top executive

Special to the Courier
sports@madisoncourier.com

SEATTLE — After a two-year reorganization effort, H1 Unlimited, the governing body for powerboat racing's most prestigious class of hydroplane racing, announced Tuesday they have hired Ron Perry as the sport's executive director, effective May 1.

Areas of expertise in marketing, sponsorships, logistics, finance, IT and strategic leadership, Perry will manage the business direction and day-to-day strategic management of the power boat racing series, including, race host partners, marketing partnerships and general supervision of the sport's network of volunteers.

Ron Perry

"I'm excited to bring the sport into the 21st century," noted Perry. "Top priorities on my list are to bring reliable race coverage to the fans anywhere in the world, the use of drones, GPS and other technologies to ensure the racing is without controversy. This will not only make the fan experience exciting, but actually cost effective."

He added, "When a sport has an exciting product and direct fan engagement, sponsors will want to be a part of it because it will actually be valuable to their bottom line. Happy fans will bring happy sponsors and as a result, create a more stable product that can be expanded to new race sites."

This is the first time in three racing seasons that a non-boat racer will fill the sport's top position.

Perry succeeds Charlie Grooms, owners' representative for Miss Madison Racing and their Miss HomeStreet hydroplanes, which oversaw the sport's operations last seasons on an interim basis.

Doug Bernstein was at the reins in 2017 and retired national champion driver, Steve David, led the organization from 2015 and 2016 after Sam Cole resigned after a ten-year tenure.

Chairman of the Board, Tim Austin said, "Ron's goal will be to expand H1 Unlimited's financial self sufficiency through quality sponsorships that complement our host race partners and race teams, allowing us to continue to provide professional power boat racing to our fans."

Perry spent five years as the Air National Guard's marketing and advertising chief, managing the ANG's multiple event marketing properties including: NASCAR, Motorcross, Spartan Races, the Air Guard 400 as well as the H1 Unlimited partnership in 2011 and 2012.

Now retired from the military, Perry, will continue as a senior account manager at a Washington D.C. advertising agency.

Austin also announced that after a three-year absence from the sport, Kristine Perry will return to H1 Unlimited in the newly created position of associate executive director, responsible for the organization's operations.

Kristine previously held the position of director of marketing and administration for H1 Unlimited from 2014-15 and partnership marketing manager from 2011-13. She also held a team management position for Ellstrom Racing. In 2018, she earned her masters degree in sports management from George Washington University.

"Her vast experience with hydroplane racing plus her game day operations with the Maryland Black Bears hockey team and Maryland Blue Crabs baseball team make her a uniquely skilled person to assume the leadership of the organizational needs at H1 Unlimited," Austin said.

Additional organizational changes would likely occur prior to the start of the season that begin with testing scheduled for Tri-City, Washington May 31.

Hilltoppers rally in 7th to edge Switzerland on 6-5 walk-off, halt 71-game ORVC losing streak

COURIER STAFF REPORT

Shawe Memorial baseball broke its 71-game losing streak in conference play in dramatic fashion, scoring two runs in the bottom of the seventh inning to beat Switzerland County 6-5 on Monday at Post 9 Field in Madison.

Shawe, which had not beaten an Ohio River Valley Conference opponent in baseball since an 11-6 win over Jac-Cen-Del on May 1, 2013, led for most of the game only to see Switzerland score four runs in the top of the seventh and take a 5-4 lead.

Baseball Roundup

Not to be undaunted, the Hilltoppers charged back. Walker Kennett laced a two-out single to score Chris Powers with the game-tying run and Nate Pawlak followed with a hit. Matthew Binzer then hit a single to drive in Kennett and pick up the walk-off winner.

Shawe opened the game with two runs in the bottom of the first when Kennett reached on an error, Pawlak singled and Cazden Nott drove in both with a basehit for a 2-0 lead.

New IHSAA alignment to split up boys-girls 2A basketball sectionals, shift Madison west

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

Basketball teams at Southwestern and Switzerland County will face two completely different sectional alignments over the next two years.

The IHSAA released its sectional alignments for the 2019-20 and 2020-21 school years with local teams in Class 2A split into two different basketball sectionals being the biggest change of an unusual set of decisions by the state organization.

In boys basketball, Southwestern and Switzerland County will migrate west and be paired with Austin, Clarksville, Henryville and Providence while girls basketball and volleyball will remain in the traditional alignment where Southwestern and Switzerland join Milan, North Decatur, South Decatur and South Ripley.

In what has become an almost annual tradition, Madison has seen its boys basketball, girls basketball and volleyball tournaments swing once again — this time back to the western part of the state. Madison has been moved back and forth between east and west in nearly every realignment the past 20 years.

The other big change locally involves Madison's Class 4A sectional in football where the Cubs could now face northern schools Greenwood, Martinsville and Mooresville as the tourney alignment takes on a south-Indianapolis feel.

a two-out rally by drawing a walk and stealing second, then scoring on Damian Breeck's RBI single.

Shawe added solo runs in the third and sixth innings, both times on RBI singles by Hunter Kennett to build a 4-1 lead.

Switzerland roared back in the top of the seventh to nearly steal the win. Nate Scudder and Courter led off the inning with walks and an error loaded the bases. Cade Rider then singled in two runs, an error allowed a third run to score and Patrick Stow drove in Rider with a single as the Pacers took the 5-4 lead.

That rally set the table for Shawe's dramatic seventh-inning rally.

Hunter Kennett not only had two hits and two RBIs, but he pitched the first six and a third innings on the mound and nearly pulled out the win until running out of gas. Brother Walker Kennett got the final two outs of the seventh and was rewarded with the win.

Pawlak had two hits and scored three runs while Henry Grote added a hit for the Hilltoppers.

Breeck and Stow each had two hits to lead Switzerland with one of Breeck's safeties a double.

Shawe (1-11, 1-7 ORVC) as to host Jac-Cen-Del Wednesday.

On Tuesday, Switzerland County was limited to just one hit while Carroll County pounded out nine in an 8-0 Panther win Carrollton.

The Panthers did all of their scoring in three innings. Carroll pushed four runs across in the bottom of the second when Chris Perkinson tripled in a run, Kennedy Daigle and Zach Clifford each singled in runs and a fourth scored on a passed ball.

A single by Clifford, a balk and two passed balls, coupled with a two-run double by Logan Rodgers, produced three more runs for Carroll in the fourth. The Panthers capped the scoring with a solo run in the fifth when Daigle singled and stole the next three bases.

That offense was more than enough for starting pitcher Craig Beach, who limited Switzerland to just a Zach Stout second-inning single while striking out three and walking two in five innings to get the win. Clifford worked the final two innings and struck out two.

Zach Weaver took the loss for Switzerland after allowing seven earned runs on eight hits in four innings with a strikeout and three walks. Stout allowed a run on one hit with one strikeout in two innings of relief.

Carroll County (12-7) visits Simon Kenton Saturday. Switzerland (2-12) was to host South Ripley on Wednesday.

On Monday, Clifford and Chris Perkinson both hit home runs and Carroll County slammed Eminence 21-1 on the road.

Clifford went 3-for-5 with a home run, a double, six RBIs and a run scored and Perkinson was 2-for-3 with a home run, three runs scored and an RBI.

Dane Lacefield had two hits, four RBIs and two runs scored for Carroll, Blake Reynolds had two hits, three runs and three RBIs, Andrew Shaw had two hits and four runs, Landry Kelton had a hit, two RBIs and three runs scored, and Daigle had a hit and scored twice.

Jacob Polley went all six innings on the hill for the Panthers and allowed one run on six hits with eight strikeouts and two walks.

South rout Trimble 35-2 in 2 District games

South Oldham's J.T. Benson hit three home runs and drove in nine runs to lead the Dragons to a 20-2 win over Trimble County baseball Tuesday in Bedford.

Benson's binge — he went 4-for-5 overall and scored five runs — was just a part of a 21-hit effort by South in the 29th District seed game.

The Dragons scored eight runs in the top of the first, got one in the second, three in the third and one in the fourth before capping the five-inning game with seven runs in the fifth.

Trimble County scored runs in each of the first two innings but couldn't keep up with the onslaught. Austin Cissell had two hits and scored a run and Ray Payton had a hit and scored for the Raiders.

Matt Saylor hung in and took all the damage on the hill for Trimble, allowing 16 earned runs in five innings with four strikeouts and three walks.

Lincoln Price, who no-hit Trimble on Monday, went 4-for-5 with two runs scored and an RBI for South. Tyler Newman struck out four and walked one to get the win.

On Monday, South Oldham's Lincoln Price twirled a four-inning no-hitter as the Dragons beat Trimble 15-0 in Crestwood, Kentucky.

Price struck out five and did not walk a batter during his outing. Only an error and a passed ball on strikeout — both in the fourth inning — kept Price from recording the perfect game.

Bryce Rose started for Trimble and took the loss after allowing 12 earned runs on eight hits with one strikeouts and four walks. Dalton Penick gave up three runs on three hits in two-thirds of an inning with three walks.

Trimble (1-13, 0-5 29th District) wraps up district seed play Saturday at home against North Oldham.

Cubs grind out 15-12 win at Charlestown, give up lead in 11-2 loss to Columbus East

COURIER STAFF REPORT

Madison's softball team built a 10-run lead, squandered it quickly, but then recovered to pull out a 15-12 win in eight innings at Charlestown on Monday.

The Cubs saw a little bit of everything in the game with injured players returning to the lineup and a freshman coming off the bench for a much-needed boost.

Softball Roundup

It all added up to a win for the ages for Madison.

"I've never been involved in a ballgame like this one," Madison coach Tony Ralston said. "The ups and downs and everything that happened. But I'm really proud of our team. They were able to pull it out and that says a lot of about them."

Madison wasn't just in control of the game early, the Cubs were within six outs of ending the game on the mercy rule.

Madison scored four runs in the top of the first, five in the third and two more in the fourth to build an 11-1 lead. But Charlestown came right back with eight runs in the bottom of the fourth and three more in the sixth.

The two teams sat deadlocked at 12-12 after Madison scored a solo run in the fifth and the game eventually went to extra innings. Along the way, Bailee Schmidt relieved starter Abby Moore in the circle for the Cubs and was hit by a batted ball, forcing Moore to come back into the game.

Madison put together its winning rally in the top of the eighth. Hannah Uhl opened the frame with a single and freshman Keara Eder followed with a pinch-hit single. A sacrifice bunt by Paige Young put both runners in scoring position.

After Peyton Holt walked to load the bases, Bailey Dyer scored a run with a sacrifice fly and Kennedy Stidham and Emma Cammack followed with back-to-back RBI singles to put the Cubs back on top 15-12.

Charlestown got a triple in the eighth but Moore got the final two outs to seal the win.

"For a lot of teams that we have had, if we would have lost a lead like that, we would have folded," Ralston said. "We're starting to get a lot of confidence and a game like this will give you a lot of confidence."

Uhl went 3-for-5 with a double and two runs scored while Stidham was 3-for-6 with two runs scored and an RBI for the Cubs. Dyer was 2-for-5 with a triple, three RBIs and two runs scored, Morgan Cahall had a hit, an RBI and a run scored, Holt had a hit, two RBIs and two runs scored and Schmidt scored twice.

Moore officially went all eight innings for the Cubs, allowing 12 runs — just six earned — on 13 hits with four strikeouts and five walks.

On Tuesday, Columbus East scored 10 runs in the top of the sixth to erase a 2-0 deficit to Madison and pull away to an 11-2 win at Lady Cub Field.

Madison scored two runs in the bottom of the third when Holt walked, Dyer singled and Stidham and Cammack followed with RBIs for a 2-0 lead. The Cubs had the bases loaded with one out in the fifth but failed to score a run before the Olympians' onslaught began.

Schmidt made that lead hold up until the sixth when the wheels came off. The Olympians sent 15 batters to the plate and collected 11 hits to blow open the game. East then tacked on another run in the seventh for the final margin.

"We had the one bad inning. We have to learn down the stretch we can't do this every game and expect to win," Ralston said. "It's the easy routine plays killing us in those innings. We have to bounce back. It doesn't get any easier on Thursday at Jeff."

Dyer had three hits to lead Madison while Moore went 2-for-3 and Jalyn Honaker added a hit.

Schmidt gave up 11 runs — nine earned — on 17 hits in seven innings without a strikeout or a walk to take the loss.

Madison (6-11) visits Jeffersonville today.

Pacers blank Shawe 19-0

Switzerland County softball scored in every inning and rolled to a 19-0 win over Shawe Memorial Monday in Madison.

The Pacers scored four runs in the top of the first — highlighted by Maddie Duvall's two-run home run, the first round-tripper of her career — and added three runs in both the second and third innings.

After scoring six runs in the fourth inning, Switzerland capped the scoring with a three-run sixth.

While Switzerland was racking up the runs, Shawe was having trouble just getting hits. The Hilltoppers managed only singles by Shannen Itell and Johanna Leatherman.

Jessie Duvall had a perfect day at the plate for the Pacers, going 5-for-5 with a double, five runs scored and an RBI. Maddie Duvall added a double to her home run and went 4-for-5 with six RBIs and four runs scored.

Lily Sparks was 3-for-4 with a double, four RBIs and two runs scored, Allie Bruce was 3-for-4 with a double, two RBIs and a run scored, Maggie Henry was 2-for-5 with a double, two runs and an RBI, Madesyn Byrd had two hits, two runs and two RBIs, Nora Hankins went 2-for-3 with three runs and an RBI, Katelynne Whiteford had a hit and an RBI, and Lexi Lay had a hit.

Ariel Oeffinger struck out five and walked one in five innings for Switzerland to pick up the win. Kristen Snodgrass struck out five and walked one in the loss.

Switzerland County, (9-3, 5-2 Ohio River Valley) was to host South Ripley Wednesday. Shawe (0-11, 0-8 ORVC) was to host Jac-Cen-Del Wednesday.

Raiders fall 6-1 at Henry

Trimble County softball was limited to three hits in a 6-1 loss at Henry County Tuesday in New Castle.

The host LadyCats scored two runs in the first, one in the third and three in the fifth to pull away. Trimble finally got on the board in the top of the seventh when Racheal Liter doubled in Emma Ginn, who had reached on a single.

Liter went 2-for-3 to lead the Raiders. Abby Ponder struck out 10 but allowed six runs — three earned — on 10 hits in six innings and suffered the loss.

Grace Adams struck out 14 to pick up the win for Henry.

Trimble County (9-6, 1-1 North Central Kentucky) hosts Carroll County today.

Madison netters roll through Knights 5-0

COURIER STAFF REPORT
sports@madisoncourier.com

Madison girls tennis picked up a 5-0 shutout win at South Dearborn Monday, dropping just 14 games over the straight set sweep including a 6-0, 6-0 win by Kourtney Neukam at No. 1 singles.

"Kourtney Neukam was the first off the courts with a 6-0, 6-0 win. No. 1 Doubles followed closely with a 6-0, 6-1 win," Madison coach Kelsey Shawe said. "I'm proud of the way we performed tonight. Long travel days can be tough, and the strong winds didn't help, but everyone did their part and we were happy to come away with the win!"

Tennis Roundup

Other results were: Singles — No. 2 Wiley Gross (M) def. Reagan Stevenson (SD), 6-1, 6-4; No. 3 Emma Lostutter (M) def. Jordyn Tucker (SD) 6-1, 6-3; Doubles — No. 1 Olivia Kelley and Renée Walker (M) def. Annie Brown and Chloe Steigerwald (SD) 6-0, 6-1; and No. 2 Ana Reiff and Grace Brautigam (M) def. Shelby Brandt and Jess Suesz (SD) 6-2, 6-2.

In reserve matches, Madison got singles wins from Taylor Harsin, Caroline Kirby and Hailey Jenkins and Abby Uhl and a doubles win by Lydia Roberts and Brooke Osterman. Jenkins and Zola Jackson lost in reserve doubles play.

Madison visits Milan today and visits Shawe at 7 p.m. on Friday.

Hilltoppers falls 4-1 to Greensburg

Shawe girls tennis went up against sectional foe Greensburg Monday and lost 4-1.

The Hilltoppers' lone win came at No. 2 singles where Phoebe Grote defeated Bailey Menkedick 6-4, 6-4. Shawe managed to win just four games over the other four matches combined.

"Greensburg has a very strong team and some of the scores do not reflect some great points our players had," Shawe coach Natalie Hill said. "Abigail played a top-notch opponent and played some solid tennis, but the score does not show that. Phoebe had an excellent match and played up a level. She was consistent and forced her opponent to make the majority of the mistakes. It was a great win for her. I also saw some significant improvement in Jessica's groundstrokes and was pleased with this."

Other results were: Singles — No. 1 Raegan Rigney (G) def. Abigail Hill (S) 6-0, 6-1; No. 3 Ellie Acra (G) def. Jessica Lopez (S) 6-0. 6-0; Doubles — No. 1 Kirsten Fong and Sarah Schneider (G) def. Kelly Hesse and Lina Leatherman (S) 6-0, 6-1 and No. 2 Aliyah Evans and Claudia Westhafer (G) def. Natalie Stewart and Caroline Grote (S) 6-1, 6-1.

Shawe (3-7) was to South Dearborn Wednesday.

Southwestern beats undermanned Mustangs 5-0

Southwestern's girls tennis team ran its record to 11-1 with a 5-0 win over an undermanned New Washington squad on Tuesday at Hanover Park.

"New Washington has struggled to get numbers this year so they had to forfeit number two and three singles," noted Southwestern coach Kenny Garrett. However, the Lady Rebels also blitzed through their contested matches as well, dropping just five games despite shuffling the lineup and playing more reserve players on the varsity.

Southwestern's Julia Worcester defeated Willow Holsapple 6-0, 6-0 at No. 1 singles while Maddy Jacob and Emma Patrick beat Kaelee Weber and Sarah Jones 6-1, 6-1 at No. 1 doubles and Trinity Stoner and Peyton Howell defeated Heidi Hughes and Jordan Standiford 6-1, 6-2 at No. 2 doubles.

"The reserve girls did a great job tonight getting some varsity doubles time in and hit a lot of really nice shots and did a great job of communicating," Garrett said.

Southwestern now hosts Greensburg Monday at Hanover Park.

"It should be a real exciting match as Greensburg has a nice team this season and is a possible sectional opponent," Garrett noted.

Madison's boys and girls track & field teams squared off with conference rival Jennings County Tuesday on the Cubs' senior night with the Lady Cubs scoring a 75-55 win while the boys lost 79-49.

Lundun Perry and Jordyn Bilz led a Madison 1-2 finish in both the girls 100- and 200-meter dashes while Emily Kiefer swept the high jump and pole vault. Madison also won all three relays to go with wins by Brett Cahall in the 1600-meter run and Riley Pyles in the 300 hurdles.

Track & Field Roundup

"Our performance was excellent this evening with so many PR's and great effort," Madison girls coach Josh Wilber said. "This team just keeps getting better and better each week which is a good sign going into the last part of our season."

On the boys side, the Cubs once again showed their best strength in the sprint events as Bryce Foy won both the 100 and 200, Daunte O'Banion dominated the 400, Blair Holt took the 800 to go with a 1600 relay win and a victory by Noah Caswell in the shot put.

Bates breaks high jump mark as Rebels sweep

Southwestern track & field posted a pair of impressive performances — including a school record — in a dual-meet sweep of Charlestown Tuesday in Hanover.

The Southwestern girls won 11 of 15 events to roll to an 83-41 win while the boys had seven wins and won 76-55.

"We had 22 personal best performances tonight. We were two-tenths of a second from the boys 4x100 record and right around a second from the 4x400 record," Southwestern coach Zac Nussbaum said. "We are starting to get things rolling at the right time heading into the postseason next week. Our times in the distance races weren't the best but they were down for both teams. It just wasn't a great night for distance running overall."

Owen Bates

The highlight of the night came courtesy of Owen Bates, who shattered the school record in the boys high jump by clearing the bar at 6 feet, 5 inches. Bates won that event and was second in the 110-meter hurdles in 16.72 for a terrific all-around performance.

"How about Owen Bates tonight! He has really worked hard this year and it is obviously paying off," Nussbaum said. "His high jump coach — Mrs. Nussbaum — has done a tremendous job and deserves some recognition as well."

Mitchell Cline scored four wins for the Rebels, posting a personal or season-best in each event. He won the 200-meter dash in 22.88 and the long jump at 19 feet, 9.75 inches and then teamed with Caleb Ream, Kaden Zellers and Jacob Grider to win the 400-meter relay in 45.75 and with Grider, Ream and Brandon Smith to win the 1600 relay in 3:35.96.

Kylie Eccles, Ashleigh Ream and Bella Marcum each scored three wins for the Lady Rebels.

Wins for the Southwestern girls were: Eccles, long jump, 14-1.5 and 300 hurdles, 49.53; Ashleigh Ream, 1600 run, 6:44 and 3200 run, 15:22; Marcum, 800 run, 2:51; Ashton Goode, 100 dash, 13.62 and 200 dash, 28.25; Mary Schroeder, 100 hurdles, 17.91; Natsuki Fukazawa, Liz Jines, Julia Kaiser and Schroeder, 400 relay; Marcum, Kaiser, Fukazawa and Eccles, 1600 relay; and Hannah Sims, Shelby Howard, Kirsten Geary and Ream, 3200 relay.

Other winners for the Southwestern boys were: Bradley Winston, 1600 run, 4:57 and 3200 run, 11:30; Caleb Ream, 300 hurdles, 42.4; Gavyn Mundt, 800 run, 2:17; and Caleb Geary, Colton Cloud, Mundt and Winston, 3200 relay, 11:30.

Other top finishes for the girls were: Eccles, second, 100 hurdles; Goode, second, long jump and third, high jump; Mariss Naylor, second, 400 dash; Kaiser, third, 400 dash; and Jines, third, discus and third, shot put.

Other top finishes for the Southwestern boys were: Adam Anderson, second, 400 dash, 57.69 and second, 800 run, 2:25; Geary, second, 3200 run and third, 1600 run; Zellers, second, 100 dash and third, 200 dash; Aaron Watson, second, shot put, 39-1; Logan Williams, second, discus, 109-1; Smith, third, 300 hurdles; and Matthew Williams, third, shot put.

Southwestern competes in the Rising Sun Invitational today.

PETS OF THE WEEK

TOBY

Toby is a gentle boy who knows how to sit, lay down and takes treats gently. He also walks nicely on a leash and will wait patiently for a walk. Toby is a smart boy who pays close attention to what is asked of him and will enjoy learning new things. He is a 1- to 3-year-old Labrador Retriever who has a beautiful, milk-chocolate colored coat. Toby was adopted once and returned because he did not fit the household. They think Toby may have been an inside-outside dog in his first home and may need that type of home again. Toby darted for the door when it opened, did not like to be crated, and tore up some window blinds. The staff says Toby likes being inside at the shelter and keeps his kennel tidy. They have also noticed that when he is outside at the shelter, he likes to be in the dog houses. Toby appears to be fine with other dogs and cats, but it is always good to double check. Toby is neutered, up-to-date on vaccinations, and $55 to adopt.

The Madison-Jefferson County Animal Shelter currently has 12 dogs or puppies, and 11 cats or kittens available. Pictures of additional pets waiting for adoption can be viewed at www.sisaveapet.com

Normal shelter hours are Monday, Thursday and Friday from noon to 5 p.m., Wednesday from 1 p.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday from noon to 4 p.m., and Sunday from noon to 3 p.m. It is closed Tuesday. The shelter number is (812) 273-1788 and the email is jcas39@seidata.com

All cats and kittens are $45 off unless they are already spay or neutered. Discount is courtesy of the Animal Shelter and the Jefferson County Humane Society.

Volunteers are always welcome at the shelter. Individuals must be at least 16 years old to volunteer. Volunteers can help with everyday cleaning, answering phones, and exercising the pets. Contact the shelter for details.

The shelter is a registered organization with the Kroger Community Rewards program. To support the shelter, register a Kroger card at www.krogercommunityrewards.com and enter FL919.

Support the shelter while walking your dog. Use the "Walk for a Dog" or "Woof-Trax" app available through the App Store or Google Play. For each mile walked, a donation is made to the shelter.

A list of needed items can be found on the shelter website. Donations can be mailed to 2727 Hannah Drive, Madison, IN 47250 or dropped off during shelter hours. The shelter also accepts aluminum and steel cans, which are recycled and the proceeds put toward the medical fund. Recent donations have helped get treatment for a beagle with a skin infection and a cat with wounds. The shelter asks that aluminum and steel donations be separated. Steel cans should also be rinsed before they are dropped off. Cans can be dropped off at anytime in a bin located on the east side of the shelter.

Those with missing pets can stop by the shelter, call or email a complete description of the pet, when and where it was last seen, the owner's name and contact information, and a picture of the pet. Pets are held for three days before they are made available for adoption.

Animals should not be abandoned outside of the shelter or dropped off at the shelter after hours.

For animal control issues in Madison, call (812) 265-3347. For animal control issues in Hanover and Jefferson County, call (812) 265-2648.

SUNSHINE

Sunshine is very sweet, but also very pregnant! She needs a foster home until her kittens are weaned. Sunshine is a 1- to 3-year-old, Calico girl with 'sunshine' orange patches. She has a sunny personality too and is very snuggly right now. Sunshine is looking for reassurance that her pregnancy and her kittens will be just fine. Sunshine especially enjoys neck rubs.

The shelter will pay for Sunshine's medical care and provides food during her foster. After the kittens are weaned, the kittens will go back to the shelter for adoption. The foster parent can then either return Sunshine too or adopt her. Fosters need to fill out an application that can be picked up at the shelter.

If interested, please be aware that any animal already in the foster's home must be up-to-date on vaccinations and spayed or neutered. The foster must have a home inspection completed by shelter staff and everyone in the home must agree to shelter guidelines. If, by chance, Sunshine already has a foster home, there will be other opportunities to foster since it is kitten season.

Motor Carrier Inspector of the Year

Superintendent Douglas Carter announced a motor carrier inspector was awarded the 2018 Indiana State Police Ralph Ray Reed Motor Carrier Inspector of the Year during an awards ceremony April 26.

Motor Carrier Inspector (MCI) Michael Buckley from the Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Division was chosen for this award. Buckley's immediate supervisor, MCI District Coordinator Kimberly Hill, said "MCI Buckley has an excellent work ethic and is highly motivated. He has dedicated his adult life to serving the citizens of Indiana in every way possible. He is a highly competent, capable and a professional inspector. He always conducts his enforcement activities in a firm but fair and unbiased manner."

The criteria used to select the Ralph Ray Reed MCI of the Year goes beyond statistics, but in 2018, Buckley, who works at the Seymour and West Harrison Weigh Stations had 793 commercial vehicle inspections, 87 out-of-service violations, made five public appearances at events such as job fairs, carrier safety meetings and recruit testing events, and recovered two missing children/runaways in two separate events while working the Seymour Weigh Station.

Buckley is a 2016 graduate of the Indiana State Police Motor Carrier Inspector Recruit Academy and is a native of Rushville. Buckley came to the Indiana State Police after retiring from the Rushville Fire Department where he served 32 years and retired as a Captain.

Buckley and his wife currently reside in Decatur County where they are currently serving as foster parents for three young sisters. They also have six adult children and three grandchildren.

BRIDGE

THREE WINNERS WILL PRODUCE A DOZEN

John Steinbeck said, "Ideas are like rabbits. You get a couple and learn how to handle them, and pretty soon you have a dozen."

When you reach a small-slam contract, you need to win a dozen tricks. When the dummy comes down, count your winners, and if the total is not 12 (or 13), decide where you should look to get the extra winner or two that you need.

In this deal, South is in six no-trump. After West leads the heart jack, what should declarer do?

The auction was purely quantitative. Unless you have a five-card suit or a useful 4-4 fit, you normally need at least 33 high-card points to justify reaching six no-trump. (Note that six diamonds would have been easy to make, declarer taking two spades, three hearts, four diamonds and a club ruff in his hand. But who could reach that contract?)

South starts with 11 winners. With no ruffs available, where does he turn for trick 12?

One possibility is to cash the red-suit winners and the club ace. Maybe from the opponents' demeanor, declarer will have a good idea of who has what. But it is better to concentrate on trying to take a third spade trick. What is the best way to handle that suit?

There are two candidates: Cash the ace and play low to the jack; or cash the king, play low to the ace and lead back toward the jack. Which is better?

A priori, the first line is 69 percent, the second 77 percent. We have a winner, and on a really sunny day, West will have started with the doubleton spade queen -- the 8 percent chance that the first line gives up.

Making decisions about the nature of a relationship

Annie Lane

Dear Annie: My boyfriend and I have been together for seven years. We have lived together for nearly five years and been engaged for the past three years.

We are both in our late 50s. He has never been married and had no children. He has been very successful in his business. I have been married twice and have three children.

We get along great. We go to movies, eat out, go on vacation together, and we laugh all the time. He treats me like a queen and my children as if they were his own.

So here's the problem: Everything we have is in his name only — house, cars and motorcycles. If anything happens to him, I'm in trouble. His family would kick me out and take everything before his body was even cold! Every time I bring up setting a wedding date, he freaks out, telling me that we can't get married because I will lose my good insurance, and he can't afford to put me on his. He says that's the only reason for not getting married.

Am I just kidding myself and waiting for something that my never happen? I can't keep going on like this. — Hanging On By a Thread

Dear Hanging On By a Thread: The real question to ask yourself is, "What are my expectations in a relationship?" For many people, being in a relationship where you get along great, laugh all the time and he treats you like a queen and your children like his own would be the gold standard.

He is probably a bit scared because he has never been married before. This will be your third time, so you have a bit more practice. Focus less on the potential loss of material items and more on your love and commitment.

Coming from that world of commitment, you can figure out a way to both have insurance if you marry. And once you are married, it's reasonable to ensure the house is in both of your names.

If he balks at this, then you have to decide if you want a great relationship without long-term prospects or if you want to start all over looking for Mr. Right.

Dear Annie: The days of preparing for and staying on a career track are over. It's not even a choice as jobs are morphing at a hectic pace. Today's workers will change not only their employers but also their career paths multiple times over their working lives. Some project as many as five to six times. The "job" you retire from probably doesn't even exist yet.

It's never too late to change tracks, to grow and evolve. It requires a little sacrifice, though. You need to look at the changes happening in your desired field and start getting the training and experience you need to make the change to a better position. Whether you want to get "ahead" in your current field or change to a path that fulfills your dreams, it won't come to you; you have to take the initiative and leap into the future rather than staying in a rut! — Call me Waiter-Teacher-Nurse-Purchaser-IT specialist-Retired

Dear Retired: No wonder your last job is "Retired." I'd retire early, too, if the workplace were as crazy as you make it sound. Yes, technology is making tremendous changes in our lives, and it is true that the more we adapt, the more successful we will be, but living in a state of chronic anticipation of losing a position is no way to live. We gain great self-esteem from mastering a certain skill and sticking to it. Of course, you are right that workplace change is inevitable, and training for new areas of development is always advisable. But make sure you don't become a jack of all trades, master of none.
